

HOJ931 Company Formations and Secretarial Services Company For Sale – Ireland

A rare opportunity has arisen to acquire a strategically valuable corporate services provider with strong recurring revenue, operating for over three decades and recognised as a leading authority in its sector. The company delivers a comprehensive suite of company formation, company secretarial and wider corporate support services to a loyal domestic and international client base.

The business has built a strong reputation for technical expertise, reliability and service quality. Its clients consist primarily of professional advisory firms, including accountancy and legal practices, alongside a growing cohort of international organisations seeking the advantages of establishing and maintaining corporate structures within the jurisdiction.

The service offering spans company formations, secretarial services, registered office and address facilities, company restorations and liquidations, and bookkeeping/accounting support. The company also benefits from an extensive professional network, enabling it to provide enhanced and complementary services to clients.

A key strength of the business is its experienced and long-serving management team, whose deep understanding of the regulatory landscape underpins the company's operational excellence and client trust. The business is consistently profitable and well-positioned for further growth, with clear opportunities to expand both domestically and internationally.
